

CONREN - Generations Family Business Equity - I A

March 2024

This is a marketing communication. Please refer to the prospectus and to the KID before making any final investment decision.

Investment Approach

- Equity portfolio of listed European family businesses: approx. 40 holdings
- Focused on long-term (the whole cycle)
- Stock selection: combination of bottom-up and top-down components
- Rule-based investment process with discretionary finetuning

Listed family businesses do offer better returns over the long-term (over the whole cycle). Co-investing with entrepreneurs eliminates many conflicts of interest. Family businesses are long-term oriented and not focused on quarterly results. They are very innovative, unbureaucratic, have better cost discipline, a stable leadership with less management changes as well as a strong corporate culture and identification of employees with their company. In summary: they are owner-managed and thus not managerdriven. Based on internal studies we have developed a quant model for ranking family businesses according to their typical strengths: profitability, capital efficiency and balance sheet strength.

Risks

- Misjudgments by the fund manager when selecting an investment are possible.
- The fund NAV can fall or rise due to price fluctuations on the capital markets. This can lead to losses in the value of the fund units.
- The price development of the securities held also depends on company-specific factors. If the company-specific factors worsen, the price of the respective security can fall significantly and permanently and thus negatively affect the share value development of the sub-fund.
- Since investments can also be made in foreign currencies, it is possible that changes in exchange rates (if foreign currency positions are not hedged) may have a positive or negative impact on the value of the fund units.
- The company and / or the issuer of a security held may become insolvent and the asset held by the Sub-Fund may become worthless.
- The historical investment approach to date cannot guarantee future investment success.

A complete overview of the risks can be found in the sales prospectus. The overview given here is not complete.

In general, every investment carries the risk of capital loss.
